HVLP stands for a high-volume low-pressure paint sprayer. While standard pneumatic guns demand around 90 psi, and airless units knock out a remarkable 2000-plus pounds per square inch (psi), HVLP painters need just 10 psi or less. That is, they utilize a high air volume to propel the medium, not high pressure, hence their moniker, HVLP.

State-of-the-art compliant actuators with variable stiffness, meet the requirements for exoskeletons only to a limited extent, usually due to their higher mechanical complexity and large mass.
