

Lebanon mobile energy storage project bidding

In a bold move to invigorate its energy sector, Lebanon's Ministry of Energy has announced the country's third oil and gas exploration licencing round. Scheduled for 2 July 2024, this initiative marks a significant step in Lebanon's pursuit of energy resources.

A total of 210MWp to 300MWp of solar PV projects are being sought, across three projects that could be of 70MWp to 100MWp capacity each. MEW specified that the battery storage and solar farms must be co-located in a "suitable geographic location" where developers have been able to secure land rights.

A total of 311 applications were received for clean energy or decarbonisation projects after the call for submissions opened last summer. Of these, seven were selected to receive direct funding from a EUR1.1 billion budget and include hydrogen, carbon capture and storage, advanced solar cell manufacturing and other technologies.

Projects were then awarded support in merit order, with the exception of Taxiarches Energy Storage's 100MW project which would have taken capacity above the 400MW limit. While the winning projects bid less than EUR60k/MW, most bids sought more than EUR70k with higher prices missing out.

1. Define energy storage as a distinct asset category separate from generation, transmission, and distribution value chains. This is essential in the implementation of any future regulation governing ESS. 2. Adopt a comprehensive regulatory framework with specific energy storage targets in national energy
